

Overview

This site documents the design of the package management system in use for Dark Horse Linux.

This system is in the process of being designed actively as you read this, and so is subject to change unpredictably until release.

This documentation should be seen as a “request for comments” for changes you’d like to see, or features you want. If you have ideas, send them to:

Chris Punches <chris.punches@silogroup.org>